Despite a downpour of rain, a large crowd was on hand at Union Station Plaza, as this "sea of umbrellas" clearly shows, when the Presidential procession arrived and proceeded directly to the White House. The Capitol can be seen in the background.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO this Armistice day I was on the British front in France waiting for the eleventh hour to end the hell which we called the World war, and my most enduring memory is the fantastically tragic circumstance that brave men were dying right up to the time of the order to cease fire.

Although we knew well before the armistice hour that the conflict was ending, the big guns continued to belch death. Fighting raged fiercely along the Allied frontiers, until a few seconds before eleven when the thunder ceased and left great armies stunned with the strange silence.

There is, I believe, a great lesson in this for us today as the Allies gear themselves for the coup de grace which cannot long be deferred. We must realize that even though the defeat of our enemies is inevitable, our men must continue to risk their lives until the "cease fire" is given.

The moral is that we on the home front must jump in now and keep our forces supplied with the wherewithal to end this bloody business quickly. There's tough fighting still to be done. In all theaters are signs of a desperate last ditch stand by our enemies.

On the western front the Germans are battling fanatically to block Allied preparations for a general offensive. The United Nations are attacking to improve their positions for the big day, and this spade work is going on from Holland to the Swiss border. It's hard work, for if the troops aren't battling in water to their middles they probably are knee deep in clinging mud. The fighting is particularly heavy in the Metz sector where Gen. Patton is staging a large offensive to secure German key communications east of that stronghold.

Out of this bitter struggle for position is emerging a compact front from which Gen. Eisenhower can launch his crucial drive.

Hitler Again Sinking Toward Oblivion He Knew Before '18

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—As a great, bloody conflict ended 26 years ago this morning, doctors in a military hospital in the German town of Pasewalk studied the case of a shell-shocked German corporal and debated whether to send him to a mental institution.

They finally released the melancholy corporal as fit, and Adolf Hitler walked out into the gloomy day.

At far-flung points elsewhere on the globe, three comparatively known men whom destiny had marked to shape the future of the world greeted the end of that war with a firm belief that only peace and prosperity lay ahead. They had never heard of Adolf Hitler.

In Washington, a young man named Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was considered quite efficient around the Navy department where he was under-secretary, was convalescing from pneumonia.

In London, Winston Churchill stood at the window of his room looking toward Trafalgar square.

In Russia, Joseph Stalin was in the process of planning a long-range program of reconstruction for the new Soviet union—a quiet little man still in the background.

In Germany, Heinrich Himmler was trying to get enough gas to operate his taxi, a newspaperman named Joseph Goebbels was seeking employment, and Hermann Goering was boasting of his feats as a combat pilot.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, the man destined to command all the Allied armies against Hitler a quarter of a century later, was somewhat disappointed when he heard of the armistice because he had had no opportunity to get into combat. At 11 a. m., Nov. 11, 1918, Eisenhower was at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., commanding a tank training school.

Today, these men who celebrated that peace of 26 years ago are locked in the world's greatest conflict with the corporal who escaped confinement in a mental home.

Unknown to each other then, Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin now are planning to meet soon to shape the course of the world after Hitler has been liquidated.

But what of Adolf Hitler? He failed to make his usual broadcast this week on the biggest Nazi anniversary of all—the anniversary of the Munich beer hall putsch. Stockholm reports say people in Germany believe he is dead. Some reports have hinted that he is mentally ill and that a brain specialist was called to Berchtesgaden.

But whatever the truth, one fact stands out clearly—Adolf Hitler is sinking fast into the oblivion he knew before 11 a. m. 26 years ago today.

Here in Salem the Armistice observance was confined to a banquet celebration tonight by Charles H. Carey post, American Legion, Army Frank T. Bow of Canton will speak.

The traditional ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier of World War I in Arlington national cemetery kept similar observances throughout the country. Its program called for the appearance of resident Roosevelt to direct the placing of a wreath on the grave of a man symbolic of all who have died in their nation's service.

Paris, defended by American troops in the first World war and liberated from the Germans in this conflict, saw American army and navy forces join with French and Allied troops in a massive parade.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle laid a wreath upon the tomb of the unknown soldier of France, shortly before cannon signaled the beginning of a moment's silence throughout France.

But all was not quiet, for the guns of Allied troops still thundered in the north where they stood locked in battle with the Germans.

Catch Basin Top Removed; Wilson Warns Youngsters

Service Director Frank Wilson today issued a warning to youngsters who persist in removing a catch basin top on Reilly ave., thus endangering pedestrians using the sidewalks along that street.

"We have a pretty good idea who the group is," Wilson said, "and unless they stop we will be forced to bring them in before the juvenile authorities for punishment."

The top has been removed three times within the past week and Wilson pointed out that the open hole, just a foot or so from the walk, would probably cause serious injury to anyone who stepped into it. The basin is three or four feet deep.

9 Negro Soldiers Given Life Terms in Killings

THATCHAM, Eng., Nov. 11.—Nine American Negro soldiers were sentenced to life imprisonment by a U. S. Army court martial today on murder charges over the shooting of an Englishman, an American military policeman and a soldier early in October.

Japs Sacrifice Ten Ships In Reinforcing Philippines

7 DESTROYERS SUNK, REPORT

Enemy Now Has 40,000 Troops Ashore for Impending Battle

BY C. YATES McDANIEL
GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 11.—Japan's "Tiger of Malaya," whose do-or-die stand on Leyte has flamed into a savage battle involving more than 100,000 men, poured thousands of fresh Nipponese against the Yanks today, after landing them from a 19-ship convoy at a cost of three transports and seven destroyers.

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, taking great risks, got reinforcements to Ormoc despite determined attacks over a 20-hour period by American planes and patrol torpedo boats. A heavy rain, prolonging a previous cover of darkness, favored the gamble.

The reinforcements, which reasonably might exceed 10,000, buttressed 35,000 other enemy troops of three fresh divisions moved in on western Leyte to replace 35,000 casualties already inflicted by four American divisions.

Crucial Battle Near

The biggest and most crucial land engagement since Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to the Philippines Oct. 20 is developing.

Both sides are well equipped and backed by heavy artillery.

The enemy convoy of four 5,000-ton transports and 15 destroyers—the Japanese frequently use the swift destroyers for troop-carrying as well as escort duty—was spotted by U. S. airmen Thursday afternoon as it entered Ormoc bay.

Lightning fighters dive-bombed with 1,000-pound explosives. Mitchell medium bombers went in at low level. The Yank flyers were in small force but left a transport smoking before breaking off the engagement.

Thursday night, patrol torpedo boats darted in and out of destroyers searchlight paths and succeeded in sinking a warship.

At dawn Friday, Mitchell's in force took the air. But a rain squall blotted out the newly-arrived convoy. When that cleared, the Japanese followed a smoke screen over the ships.

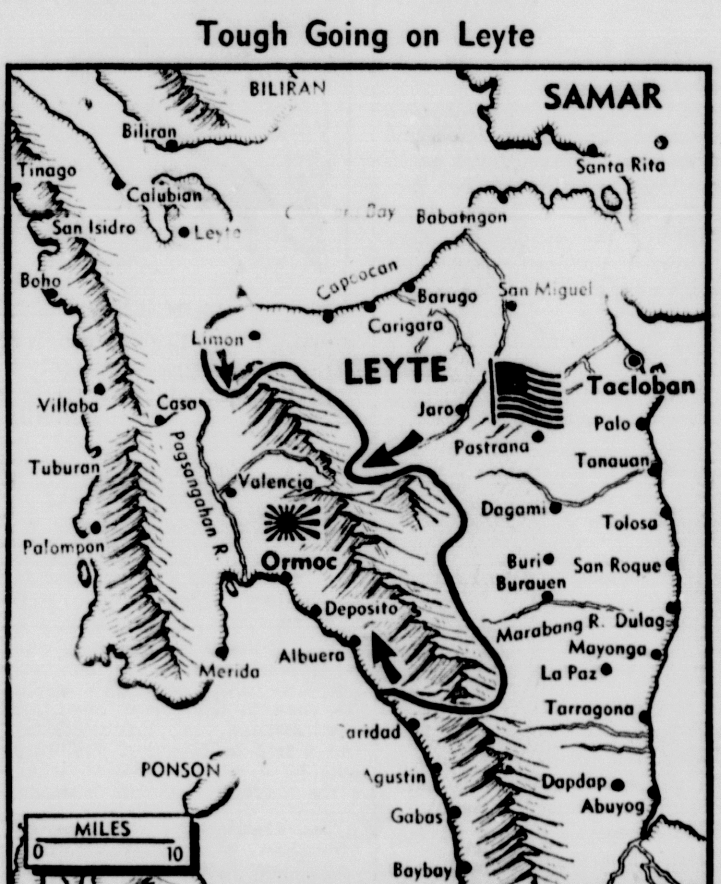

A Japanese air cover of more than 20 planes was routed. At least 16 were shot down, possibly five more.

By noon, the Mitchells got to work. They sank three transports and six destroyers. The enemy had achieved sizeable landings but his work wasn't all done.

The action ended late yesterday when the convoy remnants fled west toward Cebu. The attack cost four bombers and four fighters.

Yamashita, shifted in an emergency from Malaya to the Philippines, committed his reinforcements to a sector of Leyte covered by mountain ridges and crossed by a single, narrow winding road from American-held Panapapan south to Japanese-held Ormoc.

Yanks moved north, south and west against these Japanese from eastern Leyte whose ports, airfields and highway network were wrested swiftly from Yamashita's ill-fated predecessor, Lt. Gen. Shigenori Kuroda.

Despite difficult terrain made worse by torrential rains which have slowed U. S. tank movements, American forces apparently still have the initiative in ground fighting on the northern stretches of the narrow Ormoc corridor on Leyte Island in the Philippines. The Japs continued to pour in reinforcements, estimated at 35,000, in a frantic effort to stem the American advance.

SUPER-FORTS RAID NANKING

Enemy Claims 80 Planes Carry Out Attack On Two Jap Isles

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Japan-controlled Nanking in China felt the blows of B-29 Superfortresses today, while a Japanese broadcast claimed other formations of air giants had raided the islands of Kyushu and Saishu.

A War department communique said a large task force of China-based planes bombed docks and warehouses at Nanking. Details of the damage inflicted were not made known, but the War department said further information would be given as soon as available.

An Imperial Japanese communique, broadcast by the Domei agency and recorded by the Federal Communications commission, asserted that 80 of the Superfortresses had struck at the two home islands about 10 a. m. Saturday (Tokyo time).

The bombers caused only "slight damage" and "fled after blindly dropping bombs from above the clouds," the broadcast said.

Kyushu is the southernmost of the Japanese home islands. Saishu, just below the southern tip of Korea, is about 150 miles to the west.

The Superfortresses flew through daylight to accomplish their mission, the War department said. It was the second major daylight operation by planes of the 20th Air Force within a week, other India-based craft having struck on Nov. 5 at installations at Singapore, at the tip of the Malay peninsula, and at an oil refinery at Pankalan-Brandon on the north coast of Sumatra.

Ethel Barrymore Misses First Show In 50 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Ethel Barrymore missed the first New York appearance of her 50-year stage career last night when, ill with gripe, she was ordered to bed by her physician. The performance of "Embezzled Heaven," in which she is appearing, was cancelled.

Ill since last Sunday, the actress had a 103 degree temperature yesterday, Dr. Louis R. Kaufman, her physician, informed the Theater Guild which is presenting the play.

Jap Officials Base Stock Market Moves On U. S. Broadcasts

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Japanese government officials along with army and navy big wigs played the stock market in Shanghai and Tokyo to their own advantage on the basis of war news shortwaved from American stations, says Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War Information.

"Regardless of what Radio Tokyo or Domei (the Japanese news agency) tell the people about the outcome of some particular battle, Jap government men and army and navy officials wait until the American broadcasts, and then buy or sell accordingly," Davis said in a press conference.

The OWI chief, here today to inspect three powerful shortwave transmitters recently built for his agency by the Crosley Corp., did not give the source of his information.

He said shortwave sets are not available to the people of Japan, but government officials, battalion commanders and ship captains have access to them.

About the new German V-2 rocket bomb, Davis asserted he did not believe the weapons would be used against American cities. "The Germans are having trouble aiming the V-2 rocket bomb over a 300-mile route and they would have much more trouble controlling it for 3,000 miles."

Legionnaires Favor V-Day Thankfulness

A resolution favoring the celebration of V-day as a day of prayer and work instead of jubilation was adopted by Legionnaires of the county attending a county council session Friday night at East Palestine.

Movies of activities at the Boy Scout reservation near Lisbon were shown to the Legion members and their guests, a number of World War II veterans.

Salem's Charles H. Carey post group at the session was headed by Commander Lee Hollinger. Local Post Adjutant Charles Seckel has entered Hines General hospital in Chicago for observation. He is a veteran of this war.

Lunch was served during the social hour. The next meeting will be held at Leontia Dec. 8.

Helicopter Service Is Planned By Bus Lines

Penn-Ohio Coach Lines has filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity with the Civil Aeronautics board, Washington, for the operation of helicopters or other similar aircraft to transport persons, property, and mail over the routes presently served by it with motor buses in north-eastern Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

It is proposed by Penn-Ohio Coach Lines to coordinate helicopter service with its bus schedules and connecting transcontinental air-service to the end that passengers may be fed long distance air carriers, as well as to connecting bus carriers, and returned to their point of origin in a similar manner.

Earth-Shaking Offensive Now In Fourth Day

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—United States tanks and infantry, slugging well beyond the 1918 Armistice day battleline, deepened a broad wedge south-east of Metz today, and all but sliced the Metz-Saarebourg railroad in fighting advances within 20 miles of Germany's Saar border.

Lt-Gen. George Patton's Third army had thrust as deep as nine miles in three days, and Berlin asserted 600 tanks were engaged in the offensive now in its fourth day of earth-shaking battle.

Fourth division armored units reached Lucy, 17 miles southeast of Metz, and two miles from the Saarebourg railway, virtually denying its use by the Germans.

Other doughboys drove nearly seven miles north of captured Chateau Salins to Haboudange, 24 miles southeast of Metz, and 20 miles from the Saar.

North of Metz, another Third army prong pushed slowly eastward from Mazières, occupying a woods about four miles above Metz. It was about 16 miles from the nearest columns battering into the German flank southeast of that fortress city.

Still farther north, Third army troops had established three bridgeheads over the Moselle river near Luxembourg on a curving battlefront that was as close as 10 miles to the frontier of the industrial Saar.

Elements of the Sixth armored division which took Luppy and fought astride the road from Pont-A-Moussou to Falquemont split German forces of undisclosed size. Some of the enemy retreated north-west toward Metz, and some fell back eastward.

On this 27th anniversary of the armistice of the first World war and Patton's 59th birthday at least six United States infantry divisions and two armored divisions were engaged along the line above and below Metz. They were advancing in two wings divided by the German defensive positions bulging out just west of Metz.

The German Transocean news agency broadcast a report that 800 tanks were engaged in the Allied offensive and said that "the earth of Lorraine is shaking from a hundredfold thunder of countless heavy guns."

Despite these enemy reports of the mounting intensity of the battle—one claimed the receipt by the Germans of the strategically important Deline ridge—the Allied communique said the Americans had advanced "against light to moderate resistance."

Gains south and east of Koenigsmacher in the Moselle bridgehead 19 miles north of Metz were reported by the Allied communique, as well as small advances in the area of Mazières-Les-Metz, 4 1/2 miles north of Metz.

In the Aachen sector inside Germany, where infantry of the American First army has been trying to breach the approaches to Cologne with a limited attack in the Hurtgen forest area, a German counter-attack was thrown back. Extensive minefields were encountered by the Yanks.

991 IN COUNTY FAILED TO VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Official Count by Election Board Discloses No Official Changes

In Tuesday's election, with 39,763 votes being cast in Columbiana county, 991 voters, nearly enough to change Republican Thomas E. Dewey's county plurality, failed to indicate a choice for president. These figures, revealed today in the official count by the board of elections, showed a decrease in the total vote of 5,864 from the peak year in 1940, when 44,627 voters went to the polls.

The largest vote given any one candidate in the county balloting went to John McNamee, candidate for state representative, who received 23,276 votes. The smallest vote for an office was cast on the probate judge contest, Milton C. Pinner, receiving 16,904 and W. Edmund Peters, loser, garnering 9,404. Of the total number of persons voting, 13,455 failed to express a choice for probate judge.

MEAT PRODUCTION TO DROP 8 PERCENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Agriculture department predicted today 1945 meat production would be 2,000,000,000 pounds less than this year—or about eight per cent less than this year, due to livestock liquidation.

It forecast further a lower level of production in 1946.

Prices of meats are expected to hold close to ceiling levels because of prospective continued heavy demand.

Meat production this year is expected to total 24,500,000,000 pounds, dressed meat basis.

The bulk of the predicted reduction in meat supplies will be pork, the department said, estimating hog slaughter in 1945 may be 25 per cent less than this year's record level.

Slaughter of sheep and lambs next year may be 10 to 20 per cent smaller than this year, the department said, due to reduced production.

The department's crop reporting board said favorable weather for maturing and harvesting of crops during October had assured farmers that 1945 crop production will be at record levels.

Students Will Celebrate Book Week Next Thursday

A program in celebration of National Book week, Nov. 12-18, will be presented in the library at the High school next Thursday by student librarians and members of all English classes.

The program on this year's observance theme, "United Through Books," will include brief reviews of books on various countries and an exhibit emphasizing the part books play in building a world community.

The exhibit committee includes Edward Maxson, Phyllis Cozad, Evelyn Hahn, Dolls representing various nations, in costume, will be pressed by Esther Stoudt, Mary Endres, Ann Dugas and Florence Mawhinney.

Walter Ibele is chairman of the program committee.

Their Numbers Grow

The dreams of Armistice Day when it was new are coming back to us a generation later. American men are in Europe again, fighting on foreign soil for a national ideal challenged by Germany. American dead again are being laid to rest in warriors' graves. Their numbers grow with each day's fighting.

In 1918 and the years that followed we dreamed of a world in which the longing of all men of goodwill for peace and understanding could be translated into international law. It did not seem too difficult then. It does not seem too difficult now. It never seems difficult at the close of a war.

It is only after the scars of war are partly healed over and men forget that peace and understanding begin to seem more difficult than the age-old habits of hating and fighting. There must be time, it seems, for a new generation to arise to learn anew the same lessons and to pay the same ghastly prices for diplomacy. Nations take advantage of their experiences slowly. If men were to do the same, each generation would have to relearn by its own hard experience all the things they take ready-learned from their ancestors.

But we have learned much since 1918, and some of it will not slip away. There will be another Armistice Day in Europe, and this time the pledge to the honored dead—that they shall not have died in vain—will be kept better.

Cooperative World Peace

While certain outright isolationists who had been going out of their way to resist international cooperation have been voted out of their seats in congress and various other legislators accused, sometimes with more venom than reason, of being skeptical of cooperation have been forced to modify their attitude, it is simply not true that the whole brunt of isolation rests on the United States. With the election out of the way, this will be easier to comprehend than it was while isolationism was being attacked as a purely American point of view.

Cooperation for world peace entails, first of all, an attitude of cooperation on the part of each participant in the planning. The United States, far from the prospective source of the greatest amount of isolation, actually is the one nation concerned with a consistently good record of international good works. It has made a practice of international charity, for example. Its generosity and zeal in improving the general condition of mankind through missionary projects are without equal.

Its people have traveled more than those of any other nation. As a nation, moreover, the United States is regarded with more friendliness, even among its present enemies, than in the lot of other great powers. The very fact that we are so endlessly concerned with the opinions of other nations is a mark of American eagerness to develop more, not less, cooperation in international affairs. It now is time to rest assured that American participation in all worthwhile international endeavor is certain and to seek further assurance that similar cooperation is forthcoming from the governments of other countries concerned with post-war security.

Lesson From Hitler

Armistice day also marks the close of American Education week, which this year had for its theme, "Education for New Tasks". Some of the new tasks certainly relate to the duties of American people in demanding a greater voice in outlining the program for a new world peace, and in assuming a more careful watch of those to whom the task is entrusted. And for a lesson in how to do those tasks we might examine the methods of Adolf Hitler.

Hitler did a thorough job of educating. If Nazification can be dignified by that name. And the task of de-Nazifying German youth after the war is going to be a long and difficult one. For Hitler realized the importance of education, and expended great effort to use it for his ends.

However loathsome the result, the process might give us some ideas. If, in addition to concentration on the regular curriculum and specialized training, our educators could teach tolerance as zealously as Hitler taught bigotry, and understanding as painstakingly as he taught racial insularity, we might be taking a long step toward a better world.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, November 12.

SUNDAY'S horoscope has prospects of sudden and unexpected events, in which there may be radical and far-reaching changes, in which the romantic, social, domestic and intellectual life are engineered into productive, progressive and adventurous channels. There may be stubborn obstacles to overcome at the start, but if the judgment is shrewd, profound and dependable, the outcome should ultimately be pleasant and prosperous despite depressions and disappointments.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a surprising move, which may affect the life in its many aspects and affiliations. The uprooting may be radical and far reaching, framing a new and happy destiny if sedately and sagaciously accepted, planned, and carried to desired heights. The intellect and emotions, although keenly stirred and possibly under high tension, yet will be subjected to a shrewd and serious analysis of peculiar situations. Certain depressions or disappointments may be rationalized, to enhanced pleasure and profit.

A child born on this day may have a brilliant mentality as well as a profound and studious one, steering its life and career into novel, adventurous, romantic and pleasant pathway.

For Monday, November 13

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is most encouraging for reaching high and enduring objectives, placing all the affairs on a sound and secure basis for a progressive, pleasant and productive future. It may be a time for forging ahead to a happy goal, with all the abilities, assets and resources. These are likely to be expended by gifts, inheritance or plain turns of luck, or the "wheel of fortune" from possible litigation, investment, or speculation, with elders. All intimate social or affectional affiliations have propitious reactions.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of a stabilized as well as expanding state of the fortunes, with ever growing and progressive and productive assets, resources and possessions. These may be stimulated by sound investments, rewards of labor well and faithfully performed, by tokens or gifts of appreciation or inheritance, or pure luck.

A child born on this day will have many sound abilities, its qualities and popularity finding rewards of gifts, honors, inheritance.

A Welcome Disenchantment

By James Thrasher

In the last days of the political campaign, when truth and reason were looking decidedly groggy, we came upon two advertisements which renewed our hopes for the survival of those estimable virtues. Turning back to those ads today, now that the hurly-burly's done, we still find them encouraging enough to pass along as a preview of a possible better world to come.

One ad was put out by an aircraft manufacturer, the other by a maker of shaving cream. And both approached their subject with a candor which copy writers commonly shun, apparently on the assumption that such an approach is too true to be good.

The aircraft concern is talking about the helicopter, which it plans to make after the war. Now the helicopter, as everyone knows, has had a tremendous buildup as the air flivver of the future—one smart New York shop has even had a "helicopter fashion show". But here is the gist of what one of its future manufacturers has to say.

"Flying a helicopter is not a job for a novice. Helicopters, if they could be purchased on the market today, would be more expensive than the most costly automobile. Helicopters are likely to be costly for some time to come. It has not yet been demonstrated that a helicopter is any more safe or less safe than any other aircraft."

The shaving cream people went about selling their wares by stating a painful truth which has too long been avoided. "The word pleasure," they said, "should not even be mentioned in the same breath with shaving. . . the whole business, we say, is at best a nuisance and a bore."

Such talk can scarcely fail to have a healthy effect upon our civilization. Think for instance, of the sadness and confusion that must have resulted already from the unnatural association of shaving and pleasure. Downy-faced youths have approached the brush and razor with the notion that these symbols of manhood would combine the pleasures of a Turkish bath and massage.

There is no need to dwell upon this disillusionment. Time passed, the beard toughened, and shaving became a "nuisance and a bore". Yet the ads continued to proclaim its pleasures. It was enough to shake a man's faith in things generally.

Now if the same disenchantment can be forestalled in tomorrow's wonderful world of plastics, electronics and family helicopters we shall all be happier. Not that we doubt that these things will come.

But too many people seem to have the idea that because we have been forced to stop our normal progress for the grim business of killing and destruction, we shall immediately step through the looking glass on the day of victory into a new wonderland.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

A Needed Reform

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I WAS talking the other day to a man of about my own age, who, like myself, was in the last war and was called back into service this time in the very important new division of transportation. And I said to him that one thing must be a relief this time, which is the uniform that has been designed. And he said, oh! how right I was. That tunic job we used to have with the high collar sawing into our necks. When I see pictures of the German prisoners with that old style uniform I almost feel sorry for them on that account.

Our 1944 army has shirts and coats with regular collars, and crops of boils are almost unknown. Also they can wear trousers. I used to go out to a ward full of sick soldiers attired in riding breeches and leather leggings. And that wasn't considered quite regulation. On dress occasions I had to wear boots and spurs. And I was never nearer to a horse than across the parade ground. And I want to tell the world the job of getting boots off a civilian doctor not used to army life who has been tramping over twenty or more wards on a hot Texas night was a piece of engineering that required not only the help of the good wife, but often the help of the good wives of half the neighborhood.

The male being a superior animal is likely to get awfully funny at times at the expense of the female and especially her wearing apparel. But he might turn an inward glance upon himself at times and I am not sure but that this would not be a propitious moment in the world's history to start a reforming in men's clothing.

Stiff Collars

For instance, the stiff white collars. That is a matter of hygiene as well as general common sense. This collar job that I am speaking of is attached, fore and aft, to the neck band of a shirt. The neckband makes one layer of starched and unyielding material going around the blood vessels that carry nutriment to the brain, an organ which it is often advisable to have in the best of condition. Around the outside of this one layer is then laid on the collar which is two more layers of stiff, thick, unyielding material. When it gets a little frayed at the periph-

• SO THEY SAY

The firm front of the Allied Nations has made plans for a secure peace. Some people speak of discord. There are differences of opinion. . . the amazing thing is not that differences exist, but how small they are and how well they are solved peacefully.

—Joseph Stalin.

As far as I know, they (the Japs) now have a few battleships and one or two first line carriers. Japan's homeland is pretty well open for our naval power.

—Vice Adml. Marc A. Mitscher.

We must not under any circumstances accept a compromise peace, no matter how alluring such a peace may be or how desirous we may become of ending this terrible conflict.

—Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan.

It is true that Fascist movements existed in other countries, even in America and England, but I want to point out the difference between a simple cold and pneumonia.

—Prof. William Ebenstein of U. of Wisconsin.

Jet propulsion and rocket power will provide new attitudes, new velocities, new power for aircraft and new devices as important and revolutionary to human life as the invention of the airplane itself.

—G. Edward Pendray, assistant to the president of Westinghouse.

ery, as collars are likely to do. It raves the skin of the neck leaving a perfectly dandy soil for boils, carbuncles, furuncles and just plain agony. Why not a single ply soft collar that is loose and by orders of the Board of Health unstarved?

Then take the vest! That in variable part of the always logical male's costume during the winter. What possible purpose does it fulfill? Is it beautiful? Is it warming? How can it be with no sleeves and sheer, thin filling in the back? Anyway, with our overheated houses and offices in the winter, men are too warmly dressed and when they go outside they put on an overcoat which would be a credit to the outfit of an arctic expedition. The vest holds lead pencils which we forget to put in, fountain pens which leak, and watches which we don't look at if we can raise our wrists to the level of our eyes.

Trouser Cuffs

Cuffs on the trousers I leave to someone with a gift for invective. The accumulate some nice street dust and dirt. I admit.

What about those four buttons on the cuff of the coat? What do they button on to?

As to hats—men are so comical about women's hats—what about the dandy little ribbon whit the lady bow that is always put on a man's hat? What does it do in a workaday world? I thank you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. E. B.:—I have a thermometer and occasionally take my temperature. According to my reading my temperature is usually nearer 99 than 98. Is that too high?

Answer: That is just what it should be. The normal body temperature is 98.4-5 degrees.

J. K.:—Does beer help make milk for a nursing mother?

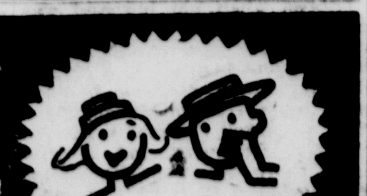

Answer: The carbohydrate and calories of beer will supply material for milk, but we do not advise alcoholic beverages for a nursing mother.

Armistice Day 1944

THE HEROES of World War I live in our hearts yet. We have placed our soldiers of today beside them in a place of honor and set aside a day in which to remember and honor the brave men at Chateau Thierry, to praise the deeds of the soldiers at Argonne and the battle of the Marne. This November 11 they are joined by the fighters of the Philippines, bloody Tarawa, North Africa, and once again France . . . two generations of Americans in a war for liberty.

THE WHITE crosses of war are signposts to peace. The sacrifices of our men in war have always been made to bring their country peace and happiness regardless of the cost to themselves. They have covered America's name with a blaze of glory, kept for us the liberty past generations strove to win and preserve. These are the men we honor today, the ones for whom we observe a minute of prayerful silence. They died with the belief in their fellow countrymen strong in their hearts, knowing that we would carry on where they left off, not letting them down for a second.

XXV

It was about a week later that I stumbled on the Brooklyn address. I'd been going through those old Boggio's, and in a compartment of the leather brief-case I came upon a small envelope with a Yale key in it. The address was in Boggio's handwriting. Ordinarily I wouldn't have worried about it. But what intrigued me was the fact that the address was in the neighborhood of Harris, Ferguson & Co. What was Boggio doing with a key to a place in that district? And what kind of a place was it?

The key seemed never to have been used. It was probably a duplicate, but the fact that Boggio kept it in his portfolio proved its importance.

Throughout the day I kept trying to dismiss the matter from my mind, but it was no use. At about noon I decided to go and see myself.

It wasn't hard to find the place. It was a stone's throw from the Brooklyn side of Brooklyn. I must have passed in front of it dozens of times without giving it a second look when I was working at Harris, Ferguson & Co. I went around the corner from the store and up an alley barely big enough for a truck to go through. Then you faced a desolate-looking building in weatherbeaten brick and limestone that might have been a small factory or warehouse in its time. It looked as if it had been abandoned for the past ten years.

Then it all came back to me. This was where I'd first met Boggio.

I walked up to the big double doors to find them securely locked. There were also a couple of windows tightly boarded up and so deeply covered with dirt and grime that they looked like a part of the wall. But I finally found that I was looking for a small door in slightly better shape than the rest of the building. I took the key from the envelope in my pocket and slid it in easily.

The interior of the place was in darkness. I lit a match and stepped around until I found a light switch. A naked bulb barely illuminated a small section of the building.

There were some empty packing cases neatly stacked against the wall. The light was too feeble for me to make out the lettering. I lit another match. Before it burned out I'd seen enough to know that all those cases had once contained liquor. And I'd also seen something else, the dim outline of a circular staircase rising vertically to the top of the building.

I started to climb the wooden steps. The first few creaked and the others let out a hollow sound that echoed loudly through the place. I must have made about seven complete turns before reaching the gallery that gave onto a series of rooms, probably offices in the days when this had been a factory.

Cautiously I walked along the gallery and peered into several of the rooms. They were all empty. In one of them the wallpaper had become unstuck and was drooping down. A couple more had no doors. But it was the one at the end that attracted my attention for its door was closed.

My heart began pounding as I slowly turned the handle. The door wasn't locked and it swung open with its hinges creaking. There was just enough light from the bulb downstairs to help me find the switch.

I wasn't exactly prepared for the spectacle now revealed. It was a large room with a camp cot against one wall and a dresser across from it. Two grips stood at the foot of the cot. In one corner was a wash basin, and neatly stacked in cartons were cans of food: soups, vegetables, meat products, and condensed milk. Enough to last a person for several weeks. The stuff could be heated on an electric plate that stood on a small table. Some dishes, a knife and a fork and a couple of kitchen towels completed the domestic scene.

I'd seen all I wanted. I turned out the light, and clattered down the rickety winding staircase. The place was beginning to give me the creeps.

Outside it was getting dark and I breathed deeply as the cool air hit my face.

I walked down Fulton street and entered a store with the sign: "Keys Made While U Wait." It was almost 6 and I thanked her for having waited.

After gulping down a glass of beer I went back to the locksmith's. My key was finished and I decided to return to the office and put Boggio's back where it belonged.

It was the rush hour in the subway and I became wedged close to a girl who looked strangely like Mickey. She must have wondered why I kept staring at her and finally turned around, embarrassed.

All the things that had happened since my departure from Hollywood had prevented me from giving Mickey thought. Not having heard from me, she'd probably imagined I'd forgotten her.

Back in the office I put the original key in its place but I couldn't concentrate on the work. I'd planned, Mickey's image kept coming back to me and so, acting on a sudden impulse, I sat down to write her a letter.

No. 34 Was Real Easy for Maj. Bong, American Ace

AN AMERICAN AIRBASE ON LEYTE, Nov. 11—America's ace of aces, Army Maj. Richard I. Bong, was on patrol at dawn Friday over the scene where a Japanese 19-ship convoy was under attack in Omoe bay on Leyte.

Out ahead of him appeared five Japanese fighters. One rolled over directly in Bong's gunights. The Poplar, Wis., flier gave the Nippon a burst and down he went in flames.

No. 34 for Bong was as easy as that.

Jobs after the War? . . . Why ask me?

You've got the answer to jobs after the war. You and every other American worker.

Believe it? Listen. Right now you're welding steel for tanks. A good job. Plenty of overtime when you want it—and sometimes when you don't. You're good at your job. You earn what you're paid. But you've got that job because someone wants what you can make . . . wants it bad enough to pay cold cash for it.

Trouble is—that someone is WAR. And maybe some day quick—if we're lucky, if we sweat and fight plenty—there'll be no war. And no war jobs either.

That's the time when you stop welding tanks and start welding cars, and refrigerators, and washers—on the one condition that you and your neighbors have saved up enough cash to buy them.

Why you? Why your neighbors?

Because you're the only kind of American there's enough of. All the cars and washing machines the bosses could buy wouldn't keep a factory running a week. But the cars and washers you and millions like you could buy would keep factories roaring from Pittsburgh to Portland.

Today you're making good money. Dig down and buy War Bonds!

For every three dollars you put into War Bonds now you'll get back four dollars. You'll spend those four dollars for things you want. And as men get paid for making things you want they will have money to buy what you make. Then you will get paid. You can keep the ball rolling.

Yes, that's how war dollars today go to work in peacetime making jobs for you and your neighbors. The more dollars you save now to spend later—the longer will be the peacetime payrolls and the fatter the peacetime pay envelopes.

Think it over. Sure it's tough to go without—especially now when you've got it to spend. But it's the one sure way—not only to win the war—but to win the things we want afterwards . . . the homes we want . . . the America we want.

Quakers Unimpressive In 20-7 Victory Over Blue Devils

Lisbon Puts On Spirited Exhibition To Out-Fight Locals Most Of The Game

Turning in their most listless performance of the season, the Salem High school Quakers marked up win No. 6 for the season last night before some 3,500 wet fans at Reilly stadium as an un-victorious, spirited Lisbon High aggregation turned in a fighting game all the way, only to lose, 20-7.

Unquestionably Lisbon's best show of the year, the game was the first in which Lisbon has been within 13 points of any team and was the second lowest score of the season for a Lisbon opponent. The Blue Devils ended their season with nine straight defeats, while Salem ended up with six wins and three losses.

Showing spunk and hope all the way, the lighter, less-experienced Blue Devil outfit—coached by Robert Rutter this year—manager to hold the locals to 14 points in the first half and came back in the third period to score on a 32-yard pass, Nubbin Webster to Halfback Robinson, closing the gap, 14-7.

The losers kept right on battling and nearly scored several times, but the heavier Quakers pushed over another in the early minutes of the final to make it 20-7.

Jay Leach did the scoring honors for Salem last night, dashing 65 yards and out-running several blue-clad lads half the field for one score, and plunging over from the three for the final. Dan Smith scored on a quarterback sneak in the first period—just six plays after the kickoff—for the initial Salem tally.

Walt Brian and Jim Appedisian turned in the only exceptional line shows. Brian snared a pass from out of no where in the final period for a 21 yard gain, did some nice blocking and stole the ball right out of Tom McKenna's hands on one kickoff. The Quaker captain, working playing his final game, worked alertly all the way. His co-Senior linemen, Jim Appedisian, was in on Blue Devil plays numerous times and smeared the light runners for losses consistently. However, the back of the Salem line looked weak most of the time and Lisbon's splurging forward wall was through on many plays to catch Quaker backs before they began operations.

Leach's 65-yard scoring run—the longest pay-dirt tramp of the year—was a beautiful exhibition of open field running. The 155-pound Senior ball carrier put on a burst of speed as he neared the 50-yard marker and out-dashed two Blue Devils the rest of the way.

After Salem tallied on a 39-yard drive after the kickoff to Lisbon, the game turned sluggish, with lots of punt exchanges, fumbles and pass interceptions that netted nothing either way.

Leach's long gallop—which came like a shot from the blue in the middle of an uninteresting quarter—was the only thrill of the second period. Both of his tries for extras in the first half went straight through the bars and it was 14-0 at the half.

In the third quarter the Lisbon score was set up when a bad pass from center got by Charlie Franks and Tom McKenna of Lisbon recovered on the Salem 19.

From there the Blue Devils tried two plays, Webster carrying the ball to the Salem 9, both times gaining over left tackle. A center try was no good and a pass failed to connect. Webster then fumbled and Jim Appedisian fell on it on the Quaker 13 to end that threat.

Salem moved the ball up the field to the 30 and Leach tossed a pass intended for Ray Kelly. Kelly touched the ball but it went on to the waiting arms of Arch Brinker and he galloped from the Quaker 40 to the 20.

Here two passes failed before Webster faded back and tossed one over right end to Halfback Robinson, who took it while two Quakers watched and ran over for the score. The looper netted 32 yards. McKenna plunged for the point.

After the kickoff a fumble gave Salem the ball on the Lisbon 39 yard marker.

Bob Boone got five around right tackle and Lanney, making some pretty tracks, garnered 22 yards to the Blue Devil 12. He picked up another yard over right tackle and Leach collected eight up the middle to the three. From here he crashed over left tackle for the final score. His kick was low.

The balance of the game was one pass interception after another, with Salem getting no-place and Lisbon doing little better. The game ended on the Salem 19, with a host of Quaker subs in the contest for the first time.

The War Today

ing to battle. Despite the brilliant beginning of our invasion of Leyte, the Japanese have succeeded in replacing their heavy losses there, and a great battle is joined. The fight for the Philippines may be hard and long, though we shall win. So it goes. Secretary of War Stimson says of the western theater that American soldiers "know it is going to be difficult and costly to carry out the large scale offensives which will be necessary to bring us victory." He also declares "Japan is going to fight in the Philippines to the bitter end." And Lt. Gen. Vandegrift, Marine Corps commandant, tells us the toughest part of the Japanese war is ahead, and that "the coming year will be the supreme test."

With all this before us it's easy to see that we are at that crucial stage of the global war where our fighting forces are going to need vast supplies of all sorts from the home front if the war is to be speeded up. Shortage of supplies—and there have been shortages—mean delay in forcing the enemy to his knees.

We need only this much more for a complete picture: Lt. Col. F. H. Higgins, U. S. Army Ordnance officer, stated in a speech in Toronto this week that on the western front it had been necessary to ration shells used in 240-mm guns. "It is very important," he warned, "that we supply Gen. Eisenhower's men with all the shells they need."

Kansas Gives Dewey His Biggest State Support

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 11—Kansas gave Gov. Thomas E. Dewey a majority of 154,217 votes, the largest the defeated Republican presidential candidate received in any state, complete unofficial returns showed today. The vote was Dewey 439,237; Roosevelt 285,020.

Kansas Republicans elected a senator, all congressmen and state officers and a lone Democrat was elected to the state senate.

About Town

Plan St. Paul's Rites

The 9 a. m. mass Sunday at St. Paul's Catholic church will open the Forty Hours Adoration. Rev. Fr. J. Richard Gaffney will be celebrant. Father Lavelle, deacon, and Father Paul McNally of Lisbon will be sub-deacon for the solemn mass. The procession of the blessed sacrament and signing of the litany of the saints will follow.

Devotionals on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings will be at 7:45. The sermon on Sunday evening will be given by Father Carville Liden, St. Edward's parish, Youngstown; on Monday by Father Clarence Halter of St. Mary's parish, Warren, and on Tuesday Dr. Francis P. Johns of St. Mary's seminary, Cleveland, will deliver the closing sermon. Masses Monday and Tuesday mornings at 5:30, 7 and 8.

DEEPER OHIO RIVER CHANNEL PLANNED

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—A deeper Ohio river channel from Pittsburgh to Cairo is on the post-war planning books in Congress. Acting under authority of the House Rivers and Harbors committee, the Army engineers are ready to survey the huge project and to estimate the cost as soon as the war ends.

Engineers said today they expected to complete the preliminary job in time to make their recommendation to Congress in September, 1946, assuming that peace comes within the next year.

The committee resolution called on the engineers to ascertain the feasibility of deepening the 1,000-mile channel from nine to 12 feet, thereby opening the historic river to heavier traffic.

The program coincides with plans for future navigation improvements on the country's inland waterways. Advocates had hoped to add the project to this year's omnibus rivers and harbors bill, but the engineers had to halt their survey because of war duties.

Chairman Mansfield (Tex.) said the committee resolution stemmed from increased use of the river by modern boats requiring water depths greater than needed by the colorful old-fashioned paddle-wheel steamers. Newer type craft are using the river now, hauling much war material, but many of them have gone aground during low river stages.

THE THEATER

The dramatic story of the Nazi plan for another attempt at world domination while the Allied armies are beginning the occupation of Europe now is told in "The Master Race," showing at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

George Coulouris, as the German leader of agents who begin their work in a small European village as soon as it has been freed by the Allied armies, has the leading character role, with Stanley Ridges as the American officer in charge of rehabilitation of the village.

A musical starring Kay Kyser and his orchestra, "Carolina Blues," will be the State theater attraction Wednesday only.

Fibber McGee and Molly travel to Washington to take a message to Congress in the newest comedy, "Heavenly Days," showing at the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The story of a lonely child and a dog, starring seven-year-old Sharyn Moffett as the neglected daughter of career parents, is told in "My Pal, Wolf," which is the first half of the Grand's Sunday and Monday double bill. The second feature is a Lum and Abner comedy "Goin' to Town."

Two murder mystery films make up the double bill at the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday. "Cry of the Werewolf" featuring Nina Foch, Stephen Crane, Osa Massen, Blanche Yurka and Barton MacLane, is the first film on the program. "The Soul of a Monster" gives leading parts to Rose Hobart, George McCready, Jim Bannon, Jeanne Bates and Erik Rolf.

"Forty Thieves," a new Hopalong Cassidy western adventure story, with William Boyd as the popular Clarence E. Mulford character, and "They Live in Fear," a story of a German youth brought to this country by the underground, but unable to shake off the teachings of the Nazis, will close the week's programs at the Grand, showing Thursday through Saturday.

Invasion Ended Flying Bomb Menace to London

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 11—If Allied forces had not landed on the continent June 6, "little would have been left of London," because of the flying bomb menace War Mobilization Director Byrnes said today.

Byrnes, in a talk prepared for an Armistice day program, said that an inspection of a flying bomb launching site near Cherbourg had convinced him "that only invasion could we ever have curbed the destruction by those flying bombs."

He made no direct reference to the new vengeance bomb which the Germans have been employing against the British.

CHURCHILL, EDEN, DE GAULLE CONFER

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Nov. 11—Prime Minister Churchill, Britain's self-styled "wandering minstrel" of diplomacy, turned up in Paris today for discussion with Gen. Charles De Gaulle of France's future political and economic relations with Britain and the world.

Allied security censorship was lifted to disclose that Churchill and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, arrived in France by plane late yesterday.

It was the first visit by a foreign governmental chief to France since this nation's liberation and Churchill's first visit of state to this nation since the fateful June of 1940 when he carried an invitation for union to tottering France.

In London there was belief that Britain's war leader would reassure France of a place among the great powers in writing of the peace and would obtain the French position on pending international affairs as background for the coming conference of Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin.

The immediate objective of the visit—in addition to the aim of cementing the friendship of the two peoples—was understood to center around rearming the French military for more unified participation in the assault upon Germany.

Unemployment Payments Lowest During October

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11—Unemployment compensation in Ohio dropped to a record low of $42,386 during October, a 10 per cent decline from September, Administrator Charles H. Jones of the Bureau of Employment Compensation reported today.

The figure represented a statewide average of 650 benefit payments per week.

Seven cities, Findlay, Piqua, Ravenna, Sandusky, Troy, Washington Court House and Wooster, reported no payments in October.

BOMB SITES HUNTED BY BRITISH AGENTS

LONDON, Nov. 11—British agents on the continent are reported to be hunting down the launching sites of V-2 "flying telegraph" rockets are fired against southern England so that heavy bombers can give them the appropriate measure, promised by Prime Minister Churchill.

Briton's who had seen the flash of V-2 explosions and heard the peculiar double rumble of the blasts were reading details of the new 1,600-mile-an-hour weapon and photographs of its effects in newspapers today.

"I thought it was the end of the world," said one man who had seen through an explosion less than 100 yards away.

One rocket blasted a deep crater a short distance from a German prisoner of war camp. The camp's pants escaped injury.
